Founded in 1960, the Concord Women's Chorus (CWC) is a vibrant group of singers whose central mission is to promote and celebrate music written for women's voices. Choral singing is a powerful instrument of connection. From the concert stage to the community, we seek to inspire the next generation of women singers and to enrich the lives of those around us.

To strengthen and sustain this mission, please consider supporting the CWC through your estate plans. Gifts of any size make a difference and are deeply appreciated.

Why make a gift?

Making a planned gift to the Concord Women's Chorus is an excellent way to express, for years to come, your appreciation for music and for this dedicated community of singers. With your gift, CWC can continue to offer high quality repertoire, commission new works, provide special scholarships and engage in meaningful projects. In short, your gift will help us maintain a strong and purposeful presence over time.

Ways to give

Through your will or revocable living trust

A bequest can be simple to arrange, reduce estate taxes, and you retain the use of the bequest property in your lifetime.

Through a gift of stock or other assets

You can avoid capital gains taxes and deduct the fair market value of the asset.

Through your life insurance or retirement plans

Name CWC as a beneficiary of your IRA, 401k or other retirement account.

Through a Charitable Remainder Trust or Charitable Gift Annuity

Other Vehicles

There are many ways to include the Concord Women's Chorus in your estate planning. Talk to your attorney or estate planner to determine the best option for you.
